"Look, I can't wait to see this...
and I can't wait to show it to you...
to anybody...
I'm showing it to myself."

At the beginning of 2000, a man calling himself Andrew W.K. seemed to appear out of nowhere in an explosion of soaking-white electricity. He presented a performance designed to inspire new levels of raw excitement, pure energy, and complete confusion.

Riding high on this promise of pleasure, A.W.K. hit the world stage with an unprecedented level of intensity. Combining an unmistakably unique sound with a confoundingly straight-ahead image, W.K. enthralled audiences across the globe, and was quickly named "the king of party music." As word traveled, W.K. and his band continued a relentless concert schedule, traveling to all corners of the earth.

This film documents A.W.K.'s first four years, and delivers all the power, passion, and presence of a man in between existence and eternity.

With narration by Andrew W.K.
